It's not what YOU earn that makes you RICH but what you save

Then why don't you start saving now? A Dollar in bank is an obstinate thing—it stays put. Can you say as much if it's in your pocket? Does your pocket pay interest—does it give you the self-respect and confidence in the future that a gradually increasing bank account does? The road to prosperity is before you—start saving with a $1 deposit. You'll be surprised to see how the habit grows. So does the deposit.

ADD MEMBERS

CATHOLIC MUTUAL BENEFIT SOCIETY INITIATES FIFTY.

Grand Officers from Cleveland, Akron and Massillon Assisted in the Ceremonies.

Fifty candidates were up for initiation into the Catholic Mutual Benefit association Sunday afternoon. The initiation ceremonies were held at their room in East's hall. Members of the different branches of the C. M. B. A. have recently put forth an extra effort to secure new members and the result shown in the large class that was admitted Sunday. The class was composed of 15 members from Branch 10, 20 from Branch 2, and 10 from Branch 95. The conferring of the three degrees was carried on from 2 until 6 p. m., the hall being crowded to its utmost capacity.

The degree work was put on by a team from Branch No. 2. This is the second time the team has worked as a body and accomplished their work in a creditable manner. This is the first of a series of joint initiations that will take place this winter. At the ceremonies Sunday, grand officers were present from Akron, Cleveland, Massillon and Canton. Previous to the ceremonies the regular ritual of the order was given at which time Grand State President Charles A. Waechter of this city presided.

The same order of work will be continued in order to secure another class in the near future. A number of names are at present proposed for membership, but were not handed in in time to be proved, and with these it is expected that another large class will be ready for the conferring of degrees about the last of January.

BY BALLOONS

The Government Weather Bureau Gets Pointer in Advance for the Public.

Washington, Dec. 3.—The weather bureau announces that it has established an important research observatory at Mt. Weather, Va.

By means of balloons and kites the temperature, moisture and movement of the air at great heights will be ascertained. Absorption of solar heat by the atmosphere will be measured. Dispersion of solar light and heat will be determined. Special analysis of the sunbeam will be carried out. Electric condition will be determined among other things.

Sounding balloons will be liberated from many of the western stations in co-operation with those at Mt. Weather and may attain altitudes of twenty miles. They will show the winds and temperatures at that height, as well as throughout the whole intermediate strata. The weather bureau costs about $1,400,000 annually.

FORMER CANTONIAN

Who Returns From the West Says the City is Up to the 100,000 Standard.

John W. Heckert, an old resident of this city, but now a resident of San Diego, Cal., is in the city calling on friends. It has been thirty years since he lived in Canton, and the changes that have taken place are a great surprise to him. He says that in many respects that this city is fully up to the standard of a place of 100,000 population. When he was a resident of Canton he worked as a moulder at the old Buckeye works, and quite a number of his old fellow workmen are now living in this place. Mr. Heckert is now retired, and is loud in his praise of his new home, which is 130 miles southwest of Los Angeles, and on the Pacific coast.

Ohio Youth Kills Himself.

New York, Dec. 3.—Joseph Mueller, 20 years old, of 19 Seventh street, West Cincinnati, O., shot and killed himself in a room at 324 West Seventeenth street this afternoon. He left no explanation of his act other than a note asking the coroner to send his effects to his sister, Elizabeth, in Cincinnati.

CHILDREN BUILT

The Certain Way to Grow Healthy, Sturdy Children is by Intelligent Feeding.

An Iowa mother tells of the naturally correct instinct of her 5-year boy. She says he thinks there is nothing equal to Grape-Nuts for breakfast. "When he was a little baby he was puny and pale, and to find right food to properly nourish him was a difficult problem. When he got to be about 12 months old we commenced using Grape-Nuts food in our family and I began feeding him a little moistened with milk. We all liked Grape-Nuts, but he liked it especially well."

"It agreed with him. He began to grow up plump and rosy, and for years he has scarcely eaten a breakfast without a dish of Grape-Nuts, and he usually eats nothing else. He has never been sick and today is a remarkably robust child with a fine muscular development, and a quick, active brain—by far the healthiest and strongest, even if he is the youngest, of my five children."

"All this I attribute to his regular use of Grape-Nuts food." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. There's a reason. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in page.

REFILLED BOTTLES

A CANTON STORY BY THE WAY OF CINCINNATI

Alleges That Bond Whisky Bottles Have Been Refilled With Inferior Goods.

Quite a sensation was created in the city Saturday by the publication in the Cincinnati Enquirer of a story under a Canton date line to the effect that the people of a local bar had been caught refilling bottled in bond whisky bottles. The story was evidently secured from the government officers and the Canton date line inserted, so as to disguise the source of information, as the regular correspondent of the paper did not send the dispatch. The article, as it appeared in the Enquirer, was as follows:

"Canton, O., Dec. 1.—It is understood that the revenue officers who were in the city for several days the latter part of last week, found at one of the hotels of the city, quite a number of bottled in bond whisky bottles which had been refilled with a common blend of whisky. The bottles that were refilled were from three or four of the principal rye distilleries of Pennsylvania. The price of the genuine article in the bottles filled at the distillery (that is, bottled in bond), is about $1.25 per bottle, or $5 per gallon, while the other stuff with which the bottles were refilled is worth from about $2 to $2.50 per gallon. Besides, the proof of the latter is about 10 per cent below proof, thereby bringing its actual cost down to much more.

"The case seems to be similar to the one discovered in Dayton, O., last week, where one of the bars of the principal hotels in the town was caught refilling eleven different bottles representing as many brands of whisky. The penalty for refilling bottled in bond bottles is a fine of not less than $100 or more than $1,000, and imprisonment not exceeding two years for each bottle filled.

"Revenue Agent W. H. H. Bowen, who is in charge of this district, said last night that all he knew of it was from a brief report he had received earlier in the day from one of his deputies who was assigned to the work. He declined to give particulars until he has received further information in the matter. Mr. Bowen said that in view of the many violations of the kind that have been discovered lately a rigid prosecution ought to follow."

An investigation in this city discloses that an agent of the government was in the city recently and investigated a number of the bars. One of the places that he visited was the Arcade cafe. His plan of procedure was as follows: He asked if they kept any bottled in bond whisky. Upon receiving an affirmative reply he at once went to the bar where the opened whisky is kept and setting all of the bottles out on the bar, began an investigation of their contents. A glass of the whisky in each bottle was poured out and a chemical put in that caused any foreign substance in the whisky to fall to the bottom of the glass. In the case of the Arcade, all the whisky was found to be pure, and the inspector, after saying so, went his way. In case that he finds that the bottles are refilled he takes the bottle and contents, seals them, gives a receipt and tells the proprietor of the place that he will receive notice when and where he can appear and settle with the government for the violation of the law.

HE JUST CERTIFIED

State Superintendent of Insurance Hendricks Approved the Examiner's Reports.

Syracuse, N. Y., Dec. 3.—State Superintendent of Insurance Francis Hendricks today, in answer to charges that he had certified that the Mutual Life Insurance company had been examined and the reports of the examiners approved in 1903, said that he had simply certified to what the examiners had found, and that the examination was on the financial condition, and not an examination of the management of the company.

MURDER CHARGED

Furs! Furs! Furs!

ATTEND OUR

FUR .: OPENING TODAY.

One of the best furriers in the country, located at Detroit, will be at our store and display the various styles in fur garments for the season of 1905-1906.

Of all the garments that go to make a lady's outfit complete there is nothing so important or necessary as a nice fur scarf or boa. Such assortments and values as we are showing will surely command your attention.

This showing will include an assortment of furs and garments such as is seldom seen in even the completest stocks carried by the city stores.

There will be beautiful sealskins, exquisitely modeled, and of choicest quality, besides the splendid collection of other fashionable furs.

We invite your inspection of these garments today.
